

The following comments, in order of their importance, are offered with respect to PY's paper, "CIA approach to the development of a national psychological strategy":

Part VI (Areas of Greatest Return in the Shortest Time, pp. 30-31):

In view of the fact that CIA capabilities are limited and communist vulnerabilities are few in the Near East, NE wishes to urge careful recon-

25X1C

In should be noted in passing, moreover, that the factors enumerated as reasons on pp. 30 and 31 are imprecise: e.g., although none of the Near Eastern governments is communist in character, the Kremlin has succeeded in establishing significant indigenous communist movements, particularly in Iran and India; the religious antipathy of the people towards communism is of minor importance in the light of the economic and social factors which favor the eventual extension of communism; the

 during the limited period under consideration*

"historical opposition" to Russian imperialism in the Near East is largely limited to only two countries, Turkey and Iran; etcetera.

Part IV, section 5 (Near East): It is suggested that a revision of this section in accordance with the following would more accurately reflect the realities of CIA capabilities:

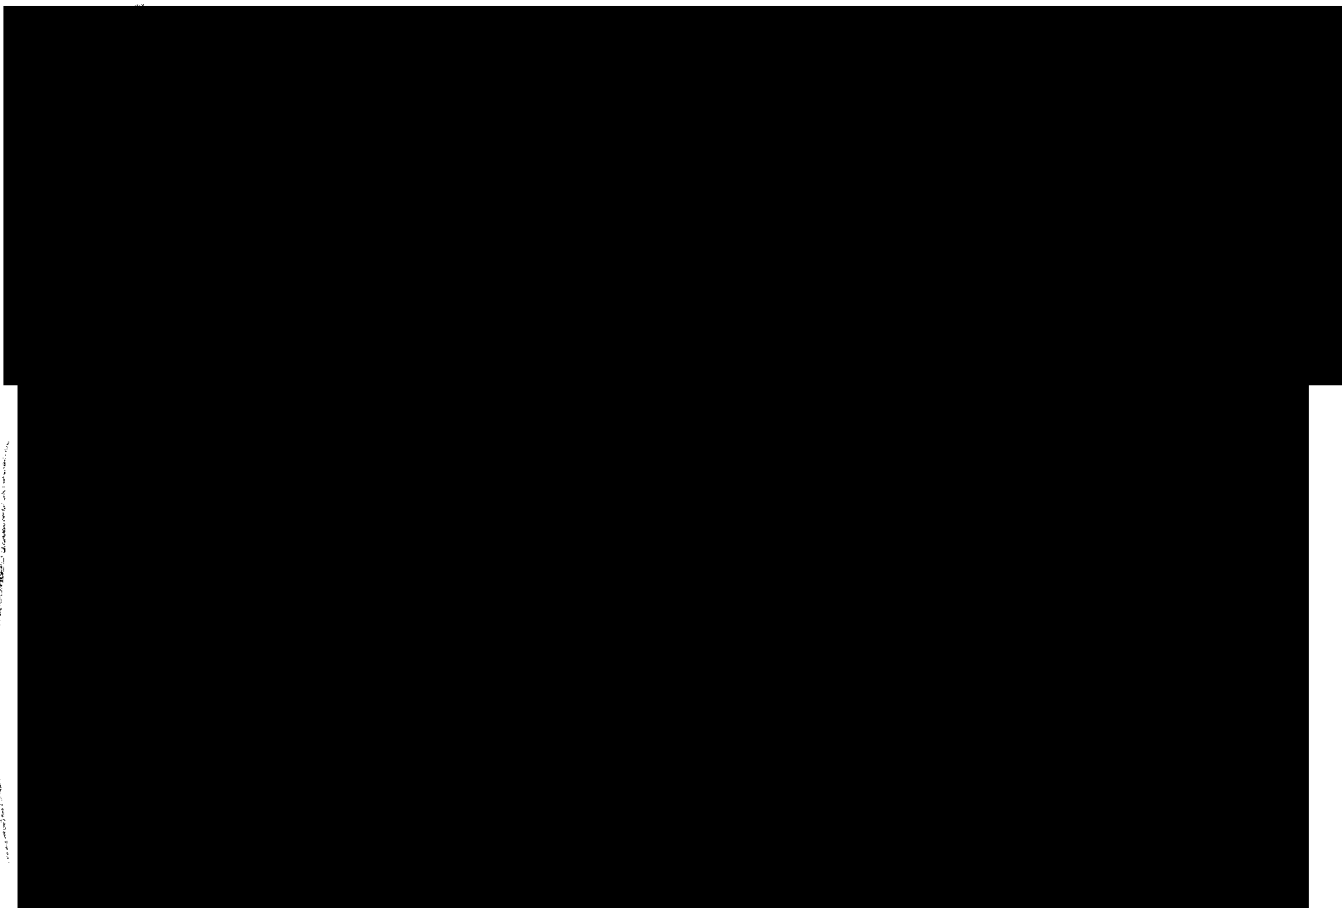

25X1C

7

25X1C

7

25X1C

capabilities, however, will depend upon the tempo of economic and political deterioration in Iran, which may well result in an extensive increase in communism's strength during the coming year.

25X1C

25X1C

25X1C

25X1C

The proposed Mutual Security Program for the Near East, which may offer some hope of reducing the vulnerability of the area to attack, penetration, or internal disintegration, will enhance capabilities

25X1C

25X1C

Section III.C (The principal tasks to orient the free world towards the United States:

It is suggested that the following revisions be made:

Change para. 3 to read "Support NATO and European unification programs and the proposed Middle East Command."

Change para. 4 to read "Orient the forces of nationalism towards US/UN aims if possible, and otherwise seek to channel the forces of nationalism in a direction less compatible with US aims."

Para. 5: After "South America", add "and the Near East".

Approved For Release 2000/04/19 : CIA-RDP80-01065A000100160006-4
25X1C

Approved For Release 2000/04/19 : CIA-RDP80-01065A000100160006-4